

Riverrun (2002) A short electroclip duration 2:15

Riverrun contextualises the small but fast flowing Moss brook on the borders of Derbyshire and South Yorkshire near where I live. The Moss valley covers an area of approximately 4 square miles and was once heavily mined for coal. It now affords excellent walking and diverse wildlife. The electroacoustic music amplifies the reflections of the sun on the water and highlights some of the twists and turns of the brook and its tributaries.